

Peter Stroh was a lifelong Michigander. Born in Detroit in 1927, he returned to the city in 1951 after completing his education at Princeton. He had hoped to join the United States Foreign Service, but circumstances forced him to take over the family's brewery. While our diplomatic corps will never know its loss, the people of Detroit and Michigan will never forget his contributions.

The Stroh's Brewery was founded in Detroit in 1850. Peter Stroh was able to turn his family's brewery into the third largest beer maker in the nation. But business success was not the focus of Peter's life. He understood that the true measure of a successful life was not the bottom line of a balance sheet, but rather the legacy of one's contribution to their community.

Standing on the roof of the Detroit brew house in 1967, he mournfully watched as riots burned the city that he loved. At his retirement he recalled, "I felt that we, as Detroit stakeholders, had to take some responsibility for what happened in Detroit, and our company would have to take some responsibility for helping to prevent it from happening again." He dedicated the final thirty-five years of his life to that proposition.

He served on the board of almost every organization that was working to solve Detroit's problems and build a new future for the city. He was on the Board of the Urban League of Detroit, Detroit Renaissance, and chaired the NAACP Freedom Fund Dinner. He helped create the Detroit Medical Center and later served as its chair. He spearheaded the development of River Place. That project has grown to 600,000 square feet of office space, 350 residential units and the OMNI/River Place Hotel.

Mr. Speaker, it was Peter's love of the natural world that brought us to work closely and collaborate on the creation of the Detroit River International Wildlife Refuge. He was an avid fisherman, he loved the water and would spend much of his free time either fishing the waters of Michigan or going to the best fishing spots around the world. He recognized that as Detroit and southeastern Michigan developed, it had the unintended effect of cutting people off from the natural beauty of the river and the surrounding lakes.

The Detroit River Refuge will be at the center of the national celebration for the 100th birthday of the National Wildlife Refuge System. Secretary Norton will be there, as well as hundreds of dignitaries, community and business leaders, and many more people from the area who fish, hike, and boat along the Detroit River every day. The Wildlife Refuge is Peter's living legacy. Without his steadfast commitment this natural jewel might have been lost to development, pollution, and neglect.

Mr. Speaker, Peter left us a year ago. His life was a testament to the positive influence that one person can make, not only in the lives of those who knew him, but to future generations who will enjoy his legacy. Years from now, people will find homes in the communities he built, jobs in the institutions he founded, and enjoy nature in an ecosystem he preserved. I ask my colleagues to join me in commemorating the life of a remarkable man, Peter Stroh.

TRIBUTE TO BEN PEREA

HON. SCOTT McINNIS

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, September 25, 2003

Mr. McINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I rise before this body of Congress today to pay tribute to an outstanding citizen from my district. Ben Perea of Pueblo West, Colorado selflessly dedicates his time and services to helping the children of a Mexican orphanage. His hard work and dedication are an inspiration, and I am honored to recognize him here today.

Once a month for the past two years, Ben has made the long trip from Pueblo West to Chihuahua, Mexico to deliver clothing, food, and supplies to the 120 children of the Casa Hogar Misericordia (House of Mercy) orphanage. His devotion and selflessness have improved the lives of countless children.

Ben collects all of the supplies that he can and then takes them himself to the children of Chihuahua. Though Ben helps the children obtain more than just food and clothing, in November of 2002, he was able to secure a 72-seat school bus for the orphanage to help these children attend school.

Mr. Speaker, I am honored to stand and recognize the selfless actions of Ben Perea. His dedication and service have improved the lives of hundreds of children. I join with my colleagues in commending Ben for his endless work and wish him the best of luck in all of his future endeavors.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Maureen Walliser for her tireless commitment to community service. She was presented the Memorial Mary T. Norton Award by the United Way of Hudson County on September 16, 2003, at the Crown Plaza Hotel in Secaucus, New Jersey.

For over 30 years, Ms. Walliser has been working to improve the lives of individuals living with disabilities. She has been a leader in her field, and continues to promote employment for individuals with disabilities.

Currently, Ms. Walliser serves as the governmental affairs chairperson of Access New Jersey, a statewide community-based employment service organization that serves individuals with severe disabilities. Under her direction, the Center has flourished into an organization that provides a wealth of services beyond rehabilitation. Now known as Hudson Community Enterprises, the organization provides school-to-work programs, job training and placement, and is creating social enterprises that will open up further opportunities for individuals with disabilities seeking to gain employment.

Committed to expanding the field of vocational rehabilitation, Ms. Walliser has been an adjunct professor at Saint Peter's College and New Jersey City University, and was a vocational expert for 5 years at the Social Security Administration. She continues to be an active member in her church in Woodbridge, where she provides support and services for individuals with disabilities. A native of Jersey City, Ms. Walliser received her bachelor's degree from the College of Saint Elizabeth, and her master's degree in Special Education from New Jersey City University.

Today, I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring Maureen Walliser for her commitment to community service and for her advocacy and support of people with disabilities.

HONORING SUGAR SHANE MOSLEY

HON. GRACE F. NAPOLITANO

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, September 25, 2003

Mrs. NAPOLITANO. Mr. Speaker, it is with tremendous pride that I rise today to honor Sugar Shane Mosley, for his impressive win against Oscar de la Hoya on September 13, 2003 in Las Vegas. This hard-fought victory made Mosley the super welterweight world champion for the third time in his spectacular professional career. This was his second world championship win against Oscar de la Hoya; the first was in 2000. Mosley entered this year's contest as a 2-to-1 underdog, but his hard work and determination led to his 12-round victory by unanimous decision.

Mosley hails from Pomona, California, the largest city in my 38th Congressional District, and I am honored to count him among my constituents. He started boxing at the age of eight under the guidance of his father, who continues to coach him to this day. He had an outstanding amateur career with 250 wins out of 260 fights. He had an amateur win against Oscar De La Hoya in Pasadena when he was 12 years old. Mosley also traveled with De La Hoya as part of the U.S. national team.

Sugar Shane Mosley has been in 42 professional fights, winning an impressive 39. A three-time world champion and veteran of 16 world championship fights, he is a true boxing superstar and recognized as one of the best fighters in the world. Mosley's extraordinary offensive and defensive skills, quick reflexes, superb mobility, excellent physical conditioning and will to succeed contribute to his remarkable career and winning record.

Outside of the ring, Mosley is a devoted son, husband and father. He is married to Jin Mosley, a native New Yorker. Together, the couple has two sons—two-year-old Najee and one-year-old Taiseki. Sugar Shane Mosley also has a 13-year-old son, Shane Mosely, Jr., who is affectionately known as "Little Shane".

I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring a role model, husband, father and super
